Dear Parent/Carer,

As we begin the start of a crucial half term for our students, I just wanted to pass on how proud we all are of the effort and work that our year 11 and year 13 students have been undertaking in preparation for their formal examinations. Last half term students were involved in a number of mock exams to help us identify their exact strengths/weaknesses and workshops to develop their revision skills ahead of a key half term.

Advance Information

The government is aware that due to the pandemic, students' learning has been disrupted. In light of this the government has organised some actions to help support the cohort going into this year's examinations. One part of this mitigation is advance information which has been published to schools for some subjects.

Over the coming weeks teachers will be sharing this information with students to help inform their own revision. It is important to note however that this information is not the full list of topics that will be on each final exam, so although students should ensure they are confident on any topics/skills on the advance information, it will still be important to cover other areas of the course as well.

For more information on what the advance information is and where to find it, the "Advance Information Student Guide" produced by JCQ can be found in the Parent section of the website under Awarding Grades 2022.

Teachers will as always support students in identifying what they should focus on, based on the advance information, their knowledge of each students' strengths/weaknesses, and their expertise in each qualification. We appreciate the continued support of parents and carers ensuring their children are working to achieve the best possible outcomes and future success. I know that by working together we can have another hugely successful year. If you have any questions or queries please do not hesitate to contact the academy.

Yours sincerely,

Mr Darren Gelder
